7 Describe a movie you watched recently.

What was it about?

When and where did you watch it?

Did you like it why? (Cinema lover)

Well being a Cinephile a person I love to watch various movies in order to spend my leisure time. Here I would like to talk about a movie which I watched recently.

Actually, it is one of the blockbuster movie and still in limelight because of its exquisite story. (amazing)

I solely watch this movie because of Amitabh Bachchan as he is my favourite Bollywood actor and was playing the lead role.

I vividly remember couple of years ago there was get together of my ~~best~~ school friends.

After spending some quality time, we decided to watch a movie in a theatre which was newly opened in the heart of city (center).

After reaching there, we came to know that there were three shows of different movies but we decided to go with Amitabh Bachchan's film.

That movie was a family movie. There were two main concepts in the movies which was running simultaneously (side by side)

One concept was about unconditional love of an elderly couple and other one was about wider generation gap due to materialistic society.

In that movie, there were four sons of old couple. when their father got retirement, none of them, offer helping hand to their parents by giving excuse of inflation in cities. Resultantly, they split their parents among two of them for six months and then other two will take care for other six months. They didn't realise that it was an uphill task for their parents.

To be honest, that movie grabbed my heart as there is a lesson for ~~you~~ youngsters that they should respect their parents feeling and take care of them.
