As far as, I know have come across [ample] many individuals in my life with, whom i have done different kinds of work. Even i think that working in a group or team provides numerous benefits such as it enhances the communication skill, confidence as well as experience. I have faced both positive and negative experience while working in teams but here i would to talk about a positive experience which i faced during my senior secondary class with my bosom friend who is player of a football team. It happen two year ago, when my school organized annual sports day. It was my duty to select the best player for the football team in order to represent my school team in front of authorities. So, we made a team of 18 members and my bosom is captain of team because of their collaborative skills. I clearly remember we won match with 5 goal and my friend spent mid night oil in order to succeed in his goal. He is very supportive team player and he is very cooperative because each player is reliable on his out of the box idea [unique idea]. All in all, i felt like a child in a candy shop [very happy] when we won the match.
