well, the importance of sports can not be ignored as it creates a sense of national pride and unity. At the same time, athletes inspire us in several ways to achieve our goals. There are so many athletes in this world who are globally admired but for me there's one particular athlete who has given me goosebumps with his speed. He is none other than renowned athlete Milkha Singh also known as the flying Sikh, he was an Indian track and field sprinter who was introduced to the sport while serving in the Indian army.

I know about him because when I was a student I got a chance to meet him in person after talking to him I was anxious to know more about his larger than life personality. I saw the movie "Bhag Milkha Bhag", read his autobiography "The Race of My Life". In short I have done everything I could do to find how he became one of the most decorated Indian athletes. He is not only renowned for his achievement but also for his life struggles. He had great achievements during his lifetime. Milkha Singh is the only athlete to win gold at 400 metres race at the Asian Games as well as the Commonwealth games. He represented India in the Summer Olympic in Melbourne, Rome and Tokyo. Despite this he set a national record that stood for 40 years and he was not born with a silver spoon, his family was killed during the partition in front of his eyes. He burnt mid night oil in order to become an eminent athlete simply put he was the first Indian athletics superhero. He is a huge motivation for younger generation. I am really inspired from his journey of rags to riches.

Ultimately, Milkha Singh is an athlete whom I deeply admire from the core of my heart, not only for his outstanding achievements in athletics but also for his determination, ability to rise above adversity.
